Time zones in Russia

Greece and the UK are in different 'time zones'. This means that when it's 10 o'clock in the morning in Greece, it's not 10 o'clock in the UK. It's actually 8 o'clock. Hungary is in a different time zone: one hour after the UK and one hour before Greece.

Russia is a big country – it's very big! – so they have different time zones in different places. For example, let's say it's 10 o'clock in the morning in Kaliningrad. In Moscow, it's 11am. In Ekaterinburg, it's 1 o'clock in the afternoon. In Omsk, it's 2pm. In Krasnoyarsk, it's 3pm. In Irkutsk, it's 4pm. In Yakutsk, it's 5pm. In Vladivostok, it's 6pm and in Magadan, it's 7pm. That's 9 different time zones!

So, if it's 8am in Hungary, what time is it in Moscow? From April to October, it's 10am but from November to March, it's 11am. This is because at the end of March, we put our clocks one hour forward for the summer, and at the end of October we put our clocks one hour back for the winter. But they don't do that in Russia.
